

---

---

Resolved:
That the Federal Government
Should Establish an
Education Policy to Significantly Increase
Academic Achievement in
Secondary Schools in The United States

---

---

NATIONAL DEBATE TOPIC FOR HIGH SCHOOLS, 1999-2000
Pursuant to 44 United States Code, Section 1333

Compiled by the Congressional Research Service
Library of Congress

106th CONGRESS, 1st SESSION / SENATE DOCUMENT 106-12

Resolved:
That the Federal Government
Should Establish an
Education Policy to Significantly Increase
Academic Achievement in
Secondary Schools in The United States

NATIONAL DEBATE TOPIC FOR HIGH SCHOOLS, 1999-2000
Pursuant to 44 United States Code, Section 1333

Compiled by the Congressional Research Service
Library of Congress

U.S. Government Printing Office
Washington DC 2000

Printed on recycled paper

44 U.S. CODE SECTION 1333

(a) The Librarian of Congress shall prepare compilations of pertinent excerpts, bibliographical references, and other appropriate materials relating to:

- (1) the subject selected annually by the National University Extension Association as the national high school debate topic and
- (2) the subject selected annually by the American Speech Association as the national college debate topic.

In preparing the compilations the Librarian shall include materials which in his judgment are representative of, and give equal emphasis to, the opposing points of view on the respective topics.

(b) The compilations on the high school debate topics shall be printed as Senate documents and the compilations on the college debate topics shall be printed as House of Representative documents, the cost of which shall be charged to the congressional allotment for printing and binding. Additional copies may be printed in the quantities and distributed in the manner the Joint Committee on Printing directs.

(Pub. L. 90-620, Oct. 22, 1968, 82 Stat. 1270.)

CONTENTS

Foreword	V
Introductory Comments	3
Educational Reform: The Need for and Assessment of the Status of Reform	3
Federal Laws: Legislation and Administration	9
Federalism Issues: Federal-State-Local Roles	10
State and Local Reform Initiatives	14
Technology Initiatives	16
Educational Administrative and Finance Innovations and School Improvement Programs, Including School Choice, Charter and Magnet Schools, and Vouchers	17
National Standards; Curriculum Reform	23
Class Size and School Scheduling Proposals	26
Parental and Community Involvement	27
Teacher Quality and Training	28
Available Government Publications On The 1999-2000 High School Debate Topic	31

Congressional Research Service • The Library of Congress • Washington, D.C. 20540-7000

Foreword

The 1999-2000 high school debate topic is "Resolved: that the federal government should establish an education policy to significantly increase academic achievement in secondary schools in the United States."

In compliance with 44 U.S. Code, section 1333, the Congressional Research Service of the Library of Congress prepared this bibliography to assist high school debaters in researching the topic. This bibliography is intended to assist debaters in the identification of further references and resources on the topic. In selecting items for this manual, the Congressional Research Service (CRS) has sampled a wide spectrum of opinions reflected in the current literature on this issue. No preference for any policy is indicated by the selection or positioning of articles cited, nor is CRS disapproval of any policy or article to be inferred from its omission.

Some of the U.S. government documents listed in this bibliography may be found in U.S. government depository libraries, which can be identified by local public or college libraries. The Library of Congress cannot distribute copies of these or other materials to debaters. This manual is also available on the GPO Access Home Page on the World Wide Web <<http://access.gpo.gov>>

The bibliography was prepared by Edith Sutterlin, Information Resources Specialist, Domestic Social Policy, Office of Information Resources Management, CRS. Production was made possible by C. Lee Burwasser, Office of Information Resources Management.

Good luck to each debater in researching, preparing and presenting arguments on this year's topic.

Daniel P. Mulhollan, Director
Congressional Research Service

RESOLVED: THAT THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT SHOULD ESTABLISH AN EDUCATION POLICY TO SIGNIFICANTLY INCREASE ACADEMIC ACHIEVEMENT IN
SECONDARY SCHOOLS IN THE UNITED STATES:
AN ANNOTATED BIBLIOGRAPHY ON THE
1999-2000 HIGH SCHOOL DEBATE TOPIC

Edith Sutterlin
Information Resources Specialist
Office of Information Resources Management
Congressional Research Service

with the assistance of
C. Lee Burwasser, Bibliographic Assistant

December 1999

Introductory Comments

This bibliography is a small selected sampling of documents and articles providing information or expressing positions on educational reform efforts during the past two decades. Citations to Internet sources [URLs] were active as of Dec. 1, 1999. Debaters will be familiar with the official web site for the official National High School Debate topic, which offers many links.
<http://www.nfhs.org/1999-2000\_debate\_topic.htm>

Debaters are making use of state and local libraries, state education agencies, and local newspapers as well as many online sources to locate information on this year's topic. Use of Thomas <<http://thomas.loc.gov/>> could prove valuable to the debater tracking Federal educational reform legislation status, and give links to congressional committees and to congressional hearings excerpts. The Library of Congress catalog online <<http://catalog.loc.gov/>> shows forthcoming books as well as an extensive collection of books and serials.

Educational Reform: The Need for and Assessment of the Status of Reform

Alexander, Debbie. Heavyside, Sheila. Farris, Elizabeth.

Status of education reform in public elementary and secondary schools: teachers' perspectives. [Washington] U.S. Dept. of Education, Office of Educational Research and Improvement, 1999. 83 p.

America's children: key national indicators of well-being. Washington, Federal Interagency Forum on Child and Family Statistics, for sale by the Supt. of Docs., G.P.O., 1998. 108 p.

Second annual report presents an overview of the well-being of America's children. Provides graphs and statistics in an accessible compendium of recent official statistics, including measures of educational accountability, along with information on health, violence, drug use, and more.

Baines, Lawrence.

Future schlock [sic]. Phi Delta Kappan, v. 78, Mar. 1997: 493-498.

"Today, in the areas of technology, inclusion, multiculturalism, and money, mythologizing data on behalf of education reform has become quite popular," according to the author. Recommends close scrutiny of evidence cited in support of reforms to ascertain the degree to which they would really benefit students.

Berliner, David C. Biddle, Bruce J.

The awful alliance of the media and public-school critics. Education digest, v. 64, Jan 1999: 4-10.

Charge that "the press is biased, presents too simplistic a view, is fairly conservative, and displays a lack of understanding on public school issues." The authors submit that the press sides with critics of public education, yet fails to identify strong bias in press sources or opinion writers. Repeating a charge from their controversial 1995 book, "The Manufactured Crisis: the Myths, Fraud, and the Attack on America's Public Schools," the authors portray student test scores as more indicative of socioeconomic problems than of the need for drastic educational reforms. They point to relevant societal problems such as income and wealth inequities, racial and ethnic discrimination, and violence. A review of their book by Lawrence Stedman, initiated a continuing debate, now located in the Education policy analysis archives, v. 4, Jan. 23-Apr. 4, 1996.

Boyer, Ernest L.

Ready to learn: a mandate for the nation. Princeton, N.J., Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching, 1991. 193 p.

Suggests learning readiness activities for disadvantaged children as being critical to student success in high school.

Bracey, Gerald W.

Setting the record straight: responses to misconceptions about public education in the United States. Alexandria, Va., Association for Supervision and Curriculum Development, 1997. 215 p.

Partial contents.--Throwing money at the schools.--Rising costs, flat scores.--International comparisons.--Private versus public schools.--Choice and charter schools.--The shortage of scientists.--Teacher accountability.

-----
What happened to America's public schools? American heritage, v. 48, Nov. 1997: 38-41, 44, 46-48, 52.

Discusses the history of the American educational system as well as the history of criticism of public schools. Notes that although elementary and secondary public education has been criticized from the beginning, the quality of public education has steadily improved.

Changing populations, changing schools. Edited by Erwin Flaxman and A. Harry Passow. Chicago, National Society for the Study of Education, University of Chicago Press, 1995. 292 p.

Partial contents.--Nurturing potential talent in a diverse population.--The unfulfilled mission of federal compensatory education programs.--Minority schools.--Effectiveness of collaborative school-linked services.

Common schools, uncommon futures : a working consensus for school renewal. Edited by Barry S. Kogan. New York, Teachers College Press, c1997. 223 p.

Papers from two programs on public education held during 1994. Includes bibliographical references and index.

Education research and reform: an international perspective. Edited by Tommy Tomlinson and A. Tuijnman. Washington, U.S. Dept. of Education, for sale by the Supt. of Docs, G.P.O., 1994. 185 p.

Presents conference proceedings and analytical articles based on a joint OECD/OERI seminar on trends and issues in educational research.

Educational Reform Catalog of School Reform Models. Portland, Ore., Northwest Regional Educational Laboratory, 1998. 234 p.

Developed to support schools, school districts, states, and others as they proceed with their work under the Obey-Porter Comprehensive School Reform Demonstration Program (CSRDP) passed by Congress in 1997. Provides information on 26 entire-school, or whole-school, reform models and skill- and content-based models, including some K-12 high school models as well as the CSRDP's elementary school reforms.

<<http://www.nwrel.org/scpd/natspec/catalog/index.html>>

An Educator's guide to schoolwide reform. Arlington, Va., Educational Research Service, 1999. 141 p.

Prepared by American Institutes for Research, Washington, under contract to American Association of School Administrators, American Federation of Teachers, National Association of Elementary School Principals, National Association of Secondary School Principals, National Education Association.

Partial contents.--Profiles of 24 approaches.--Core knowledge.--High schools that work.--Talent development high school with career academies.

<<http://www.aasa.org/Reform/index.htm>>

Elmore, Richard F.

The politics of education reform. Issues in science and technology, v. 14, fall 1997: 41-49.

Advises, "respect existing power bases and make administrators accountable if you want to see better schools." "Dispersed control and political pluralism" are described as characteristics of U.S. educational governance.

Finn, Chester E., Jr.

Learning-free zones. Policy review, no. 85, Sept.-Oct. 1997: 34-38.

Five obstacles to school reform: "The education system does not reward risk-taking, . . . resists oversight from elected officials and the public, . . . is unaccountable for failure, . . . spends too little of its resources in the classroom, . . . [and] the consumers of education are no match for the system."

Hatch, Thomas.

How comprehensive can comprehensive reform be? Phi Delta Kappan, v. 79, Mar. 1998: 518-522.

Presents ideas of an ATLAS Community project, 1992-96, which caused the author to reevaluate knowledge needs of comprehensive educational reform efforts: technical, resource, local, process, strategic, and organizational knowledge.

Labaree, David F.

Public goods, private goods: the American struggle over educational goals. American educational research journal, v. 34, spring 1997: 39-81.

"Democratic equality (schools should focus on preparing citizens), social efficiency (they should focus on training workers), and social mobility (they should prepare individuals to compete for social positions): . . .

historical conflict over these competing visions of education has resulted in a contradictory structure for the educational system that has sharply impaired its effectiveness. More important still has been the growing domination of the social mobility goal, which has reshaped education into a commodity for the purposes of status attainment and has elevated the pursuit of credentials over the acquisition of knowledge."

Lund, Leonard. Wild, Cathleen.

Ten years after A Nation at Risk. New York, Conference Board, 1993. 29 p. (Conference Board report no. 1041)

The National education goals report: building a nation of learners, 1998.

Washington, National Education Goals Panel, 1998. 78 p..

A "bipartisan and intergovernmental body of federal and state officials" reports annual progress of states towards goals: being ready to learn, school completion, student achievement and citizenship, teacher education and professional development, mathematics and science, adult literacy and lifelong learning, safe, disciplined and alcohol-and drug-free schools, and parental participation. This report with a companion volume (which gives data per state) and earlier reports are online at: <http://negp.gov/webpg720.htm>. Additional reports on individual goals are at: <http://www.negp.gov/readrept.htm>

National Forum on Educational Reform (1984 : San Francisco, Calif.).

Excellence in our schools : making it happen; conference proceedings of a National Forum on Educational Reform held in San Francisco, Mar. 14-16, 1984. New York, College Entrance Examination Board, College Board Publications [distributor] 1985. 95 p.

New directions: Federal education policy in the twenty-first century. Marci Kanstoroom and Chester E. Finn, Jr., eds. Washington, Fordham Foundation and the Manhattan Institute, 1999. 172 p.

Partial contents.--Thirty-four years of dashed hopes, by Chester E. Finn, Jr., M. Kanstoroom, and M. Petrilli.--Title I.--Title IV: neither safe nor drug-free.--School-to-work: right problem, wrong solution.--Michigan: setting priorities straight.--Arizona: back off, Washington.--Pennsylvania: vesting power in the people.--Colorado: trust but verify.--Student performance: the national agenda in education.--Reinventing the federal role. <http://edexcellence.net/library/newdrct.htm>

Newmann, Fred M. King, M. Bruce. Ridgon, Mark.

Accountability and school performance: implications from restructuring schools. Harvard educational review, v. 67, spring 1997: 41-74.

Finds external accountability insufficient to impel schools to improve student achievement, due to "implementation controversies around standards, incentives, and constituencies; insufficient efforts to organize the human, technical, and social resources of a school into an effective collective enterprise--what the authors term 'organizational capacity'-- and failure to recognize the importance of internal school accountability."

Rallis, Sharon F. Zajano, Nancy C.

Keeping the faith until the outcomes are obvious. Phi Delta Kappan, v. 78, May 1997: 706-709.

"Reform initiatives do not produce instant results . . . . The question becomes how to maintain the support of the various stakeholders during the trial-and-error stage of implementation."

Research on middle grades. Phi Delta Kappan, v. 78, Mar. 1997: 517-556.

Partial contents.--What works in middle-grades school reform.--The project on high performance learning communities: applying the land-grant model to school reform.

Rose, Lowell C. Rapp, Dana.

The future of the public schools: a public discussion. Phi Delta Kappan, v. 78, June 1997: 765-768.

"How to engage the public in a discussion of the future of the public schools should be at the top of every community's agenda."

Rothstein, Richard.

The way we were? The myths and realities of America's student achievement (Century Foundation/Twentieth Century Fund Report) Twentieth Century Fund Press, 1998. 136 p.

Schlechty, Phillip C.

Inventing better schools: an action plan for educational reform. San Francisco, Jossey-Bass Publishers, c1997. 294 p. (Jossey-Bass education series)

Addresses assessing districts' capacity to support change and leading the change process. He also wrote, "Schools for the Twenty-first Century: Leadership Imperatives for Educational Reform," 1990.

Should more rigorous academic standards be established for all public elementary and/or secondary schools in the United States? Intercollegiate debate topic: 1985-1986. Compiled by the Congressional Research Service, Library of Congress. Washington, G.P.O., 1985. 803 p. (Document, House, 99th Congress, 1st session, no. 99-95)

Spring, Joel H.

American education. 8th ed. Boston : McGraw-Hill, c1998. 296 p.

Basic text on social and political aspects of educational policymaking.

The State of the nation's public schools: a conference report. Edited by Stanley Elam. Bloomington, Ind., Phi Delta Kappa, c1993. 280 p.

TIMSS [The Third International Mathematics and Science Study]: a "power tool" for school reform. [Report from the] National Institute on Educational Governance, Finance, Policy Making, and Management. Policy Forum, v. 2, spring 1999, available from the U.S. Dept. of Education, 1999.

Compares the mathematics and science achievement of students, teaching, and curriculum using 1995-96 research with one-half million students in 41 nations. The Policy Forum recommends using this to do "benchmarking" of achievement for reform assessment.

<<http://www.ed.gov/pubs/policyforum/Spring99/tool.html>>

U.S. Dept. of Education.

An invitation to your community: how Goals 2000 works.

Elements of the State Goals 2000 Action Plan are in the first appendix.

<<http://www.ed.gov/CommInvite/works.html>>

U.S. Dept. of Labor.

What work requires of schools: a SCANS report for America 2000: a letter to parents, employers, and educators from the Secretary of Labor and the Secretary's Commission on Achieving Necessary Skills. Washington, The Dept., for sale by the Supt. of Docs, G.P.O., 1991. [31] p.

<<http://www.ttrc.doleta.gov/SCANS/work.html>>

U.S. National Center for Education Statistics.

National Assessment of Educational Progress [NAEP], also known as "the Nation's Report Card," has assessed the academic performance of fourth, eighth, and twelfth graders in a range of subjects every year since 1969.

<<http://nces.ed.gov/nationsreportcard/site/home.asp>>

U.S. National Commission on Excellence in Education.

Meeting the challenge of A Nation at Risk. Edited by USA Research.

Cambridge, Mass., USA Research, [1984] 124 p.

Presents views and experiences of education business leaders involved in efforts to improve education. Includes a summary of "A Nation at Risk," the document that initiated much of the reform effort.

-----

A nation at risk : the imperative for educational reform: a report to the Nation and the Secretary of Education. Washington, U.S. Dept of Education, [for sale by the Supt. of Docs., G.P.O.], 1983. 65 p.

In 1984 an expanded edition was published: A nation at risk: the full account. 115 p.

<<http://www.ed.gov/pubs/NatAtRisk/index.html>>

U.S. President (1989-1993 : Bush)

Joint statement following the education summit with governors in Charlottesville, Virginia, Sept. 28, 1989. Weekly compilation of Presidential documents, v. 25, Oct. 9, 1989: 1487-1490.

Wasley, Patricia. Hampel, Robert. Clark, Richard.

The puzzle of whole-school change. Phi Delta Kappan, v. 78, May 1997: 690-697.

"Study of five high schools, each with different demographics but all members of the Coalition of Essential Schools and involved in reform for a least seven years, yielded a number of clues that might help solve a central puzzle of school reform: Is it possible for an entire school to move forward together to make changes that will positively affect students?"

Federal Laws: Legislation and Administration

Kirchhoff, Sue.

Senate's savings account's bill prompts early Clinton threats. Congressional Quarterly weekly report, v. 56, Apr. 25, 1998: 1065-1066.

One example from a journal that tracks legislation's progress and analyzes political developments.

U.S. Congress. Conference Committees, 1999.

Education Flexibility Partnership Act of 1999; conference report to accompany H.R. 800. Apr. 20, 1999. Washington, G.P.O., 1999. 19 p. (Report, Senate, 106th Congress, 1st session, no. 106-100)

Deals with delegation of waiver authority to the states over various aspects of federal education programs.

U.S. Congress. House. Committee on Education and the Workforce.

Hot topics on education. Updated frequently.

Highlights congressional activity on current issues. In 1999 these included: teacher empowerment and quality, school choice, Academic Achievement for All Act, ESEA reauthorization, education flexibility, and Dollars to the Classroom.

<http://www.house.gov/ed\_workforce/hottopic.htm#education>

-----
H.R. 3248, the Dollars to the Classroom Act. Hearing, 105th Congress, 2nd session. May 5, 1998. Washington, G.P.O., 1999. 167 p.

"Serial no. 105-104"

Discusses a proposed block grant program.

U.S. Dept. of Education

Access ERIC: search ERIC database, maintained by the Computer Sciences Corporation for the Dept. of Education. Updated monthly.

Citations to useful educational articles may be found through ERIC, searchable free online. Also available are ERIC abstracts in Resources in Education and Current Index to Journals in Education. This database contains more than 950,000 abstracts.

<<http://www.accesseric.org/searchdb/searchdb.html>>

-----
Department of Education FY 2000 Budget Summary. [Washington, 1999]

Of particular interest: Section F - Educational Research and Improvement, and Table 2a.--FY 2000 Budget Request: Education Reform. [a statistical budget data in chart format].

<<http://www.ed.gov/offices/OUS/Budget00/BudgetSumm/sum-f.html>>

<<http://www.ed.gov/offices/OUS/Budget00/BudgetSumm/apndx-2a.html>>

-----
The Federal role in education, Revised Aug. 1999.

<<http://www.ed.gov/offices/OUS/fedrole.html>>

-----
The 1999 Regional Conferences on Improving America's Schools.

"The Department's most in-depth and comprehensive conferences on education reform," included workshops on "21st Century High Schools: Strategies for Restructuring High Schools so that Every Student is Prepared for College, Careers and Lifelong Learning." Previous conferences' documents are also linked from the 1998 site.

<<http://www.ncbe.gwu.edu/iasconferences/>>

<<http://www.ncbe.gwu.edu/iasconferences/1998/index.htm>>

-----
What's new on ED [the Education Department]'s web page.

<<http://www.ed.gov/news.html>>

U.S. Dept. of Education. Office of Educational Research and Improvement.

OERI - who we are and what we can do for you. Nov. 1999.

These programs research various aspects of educational accountability, including secondary education, and are accessible within OERI's site: Interagency Education Research Initiative.--National Center for Education Statistics.--National Educational Research Policy and Priorities Board.--National Institute on the Education of At-Risk Students.--National Institute on Student Achievement, Curriculum, and Assessment.--National Library of Education.--National Research And Development Centers.--Office of Reform Assistance and Dissemination.

<<http://www.ed.gov/offices/OERI/>>

-----
Comprehensive School Reform Research and Development Plan. Mar. 1999.

In FY 1998, Congress established this program to provide resources for individual schools to implement entire-school designs with the assistance of outside service providers to support the development of comprehensive reform initiatives based on reliable research and effective practices.

<<http://www.ed.gov/offices/OERI/csrrdp.html>>

-----
Regional Educational Laboratories.

These laboratories provide assistance to State and local education agencies. Links to the regions' school reform related web sites.

<<http://www.ed.gov/offices/OESE/compreform/labs.html>>

Federalism Issues: Federal-State-Local Roles

Finn, Chester E., Jr. Petrilli, Michael J.

Washington versus school reform. Public interest, no. 133, fall 1998: 55-67.

Argues that, "because Washington plays, in the end, such a marginal role in education, it feels free to do as it pleases," behaving rather "immaturely." While predicting "minor tweaking of longstanding programs" in the upcoming Elementary and Secondary Education Act cycle, the authors recommend an alternative, in which the federal government could help: by "busting" what the authors describe as the "genuine problems of 1998, rather than the vestigial problems of 1995," teacher training and public school management monopolies.

Mitchell, Karen Janice.

Reforming and conforming: NASDC principals discuss school accountability systems. Santa Monica, Calif., Rand, 1996. 50 p. (New American Schools Development Corporation. "MR-716-NASDC"; Rand Institute on Education & Training)

National Governors' Association.

HR-11. The governors' role in supporting standards-based education reform. The Association, updated 1999.

Reports the official policy position, begun at the governors' 1989 National Education Summit with President Bush and modified by the 1996 Summit. Explains Achieve, an organization formed after the 1996 summit to assist governors and business leaders in meeting the commitments. Achieve is governed by six Governors and six business leaders. "Governors strongly affirm that states, not the federal government, should assume the responsibility for creating an education system that enables all students and adults to achieve high standards. Each state has the constitutional responsibility to determine its own education system. The Governors believe that the federal government should support state efforts to implement the National Education Goals" in particular ways listed in this policy statement.
<<http://www.nga.org/Pubs/Policies/HR/hr11.asp>>

National School Boards Association.

An investment for student achievement. (Includes: Invest in Education: Ten tactics to increase federal support for education.) Alexandria, Va., 1999.

Calls on Congress to "[1] Strongly support core education programs that continue to make a difference to our children such as the Title I program for reading and math, teacher professional development, after-school, and technology programs; [2] Help our local schools provide safe, modern, well-equipped facilities; [3] Help local schools reduce class size by continuing to provide class-size reduction resources; [4] Live up to its commitment to students with disabilities and fully fund its promised portion of the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA)."

<http://www.nsba.org/advocacy/actionkit.htm#invest info>

Nelson, Wade W.

The naked truth about school reform in Minnesota. Phi Delta Kappan, v. 79, May 1998: 679-684.

"Imperial forces would put into practice in Minnesota a controlling system designed, albeit with the best of intentions, to make teachers and students conform to standards not of their making or choice."

Rees, Nina Shokraii.

The pros and cons of the House "Straight A's" Act. Washington, Heritage Foundation, 1999. 3 p. (Executive memorandum, no. 635 (Nov. 8, 1999)).

Reviews H.R. 2300, Academic Achievement for All, and the bill's significance for federal-State relationships in the area of educational reform and accountability.

<<http://heritage.org/library/execmemo/em635.html>>

Taylor, Lori L.

Government's role in primary and secondary education. Federal Reserve Bank of Dallas economic review, first quarter, 1999: 15-24.

"Describes three rationales for government participation in primary and secondary education [as opposed to leaving it all up to the parents with children], discusses the economic evidence in their support, and examines their major implications for the role of government." Concludes that "government's role in primary and secondary education should be subordinate to the role of families and primarily focused on assisting in education finance and ensuring that schools produce desirable social outcomes."

U.S. Congress. House. Committee on Education and the Workforce. Overview of the testing/standards and assessments in the states. Hearing, 105th Congress, 2nd session. Feb. 23, 1998. Washington, G.P.O., 1999. 116 p.

"Serial no. 105-73"

U.S. Congress. House. Committee on Education and the Workforce. Subcommittee on Early Childhood, Youth and Families. Comprehensive school reform program. Hearing, 105th Congress, 2nd session. June 23, 1998. Washington, G.P.O., 1999. 268 p.

"Serial no. 105-122"

U.S. Congress. House. Committee on Education and the Workforce. Subcommittee on Oversight and Investigations. Education at a crossroads: what works and what's wasted. Hearing, 105th Congress, 2d session. Mar. 20, 1998. Washington, G.P.O., 1999. 117 p.

"Serial no. 105-90"

Hearing held in Timnath, CO"

The Subcommittee held a series of hearings with some variation of this title throughout the U.S. during 1997 and 1998, including in Arizona, California, Georgia, Iowa, Michigan, Ohio, and Tennessee.

-----
Hearing on "dollars in the classroom." Hearing, 105th Congress, 1st session. Washington, G.P.O., 1997. 82 p.

"Serial no. 105-27"

A Member of the Subcommittee reports, "As we have gone around the country taking a look at what's working and what's wasted in the Education at a Crossroads project, ... [the Members have found] examples of excellence in every community that we are going to where local parents, teachers, and administrators and other interested parties ... are making a significant, positive impact on education."

U.S. Congress. Senate. Committee on Appropriations. Subcommittee on Departments of Labor, Health and Human Services, Education, and Related Agencies.

Goals 2000. Hearing, 104th Congress, 1st session. Washington, G.P.O., 1996. 30 p. (Hearing, Senate, 104th Congress, 1st session, S. hrg., 104-414)

"Special hearing" discusses Federal-State relations affected by Goals 2000 legislation or actions.

U.S. Congress. Senate. Committee on Health, Education, Labor, and Pensions. Education reform: governors' views. Hearing, 106th Congress, 1st session. Feb. 23, 1999. Washington, G.P.O., 1999. 36 p. (Hearing, Senate, 106th Congress, 1st session, S. hrg. 106-4)

"Examining elementary and secondary education reform initiatives at the State level and the view of State governors on the proper role of the Federal Government."

Governors speaking included Tom Ridge, PA, Christine Todd Whitman, NJ, Parris N. Glendening, MD, and John Engler, MI.

U.S. Congress. Senate. Committee on the Budget.

Education, international affairs and social security task forces. [Hearing], 105th Congress, 2d session. Jan. 28-June 4, 1998. Washington, G.P.O., 1998. 521 p. (Hearing, Senate, 105th Congress, 2nd session, S. hrg. 105-625)

"Jan. 28, 1998--Federal education funding: the State and local perspective; Jan. 29, 1998--The impact of research and technology on K-12 education; Feb. 9, 1998--State and local initiatives: engines for change; Feb. 11, 1998--Addressing our struggling public school system: ideas for reform.

U.S. General Accounting Office.

Federal education funding: allocation to State and local agencies for 10 programs; report to congressional requesters. Sept. 30, 1999. Washington, GAO, 1999. 34 p.

"GAO/HEHS-99-180; B-278482"

"As the Congress prepares to consider reauthorization of many of the elementary and secondary programs, [the Congress asked GAO] to determine, for 10 major Education programs for fiscal year 1996, (1) the percentage of federal funding spent at the federal level and the uses of these funds and (2) the percentage of federal funding spent at the state level and the uses of these funds, and ... the amount of time school personnel spent fulfilling federal administrative requirements for those programs for which the districts received funds."

Other General Accounting Office (GAO) Reports and testimony before Congress for the past two to three months can be found by searching the Web. They may be downloaded as text or viewed as PDF files:

<<http://www.gao.gov/reports.htm>>"

GAO's reports older than two or three months are found through Government Printing Office's archive:

<http://www.access.gpo.gov/su\_docs/aces/aces160.shtml>

U.S. General Accounting Office.

Elementary and secondary education: Ed-Flex states vary in implementation of waiver process; report to the Chairman, Committee on Education and the Workforce, House of Representatives. Nov. 13, 1998. Washington, G.A.O., 1998. 31 p.

"GAO/HEHS-99-17"

Describes "the scope of Ed-Flex [Education Flexibility Partnership Demonstration Act program and how it works]; ...the criteria States must meet to participate in Ed-Flex and ... the extent to which states must meet to participate in Ed-Flex and identifies] the extent to which states not currently participating satisfy these criteria, ... the number and type of waivers that Ed-Flex states have granted to their local school districts, ... discuss[es] participating states' views on the usefulness of Ed-Flex, and ... identifies] issues for ensuring accountability if Ed-Flex is continued or expanded."

-----
Goals 2000: flexible funding supports state and local education reform; report to congressional committees. Nov. 16, 1998. Washington, G.A.O., 1998. 32 p.

"GAO/HEHS-99-10, B-278982"

"Review[s] the Goals 2000 program to determine (1) how its funds have been spent at both the state and local levels, including the levels of funding for developing standards and assessments as well as health education, and (2) how state and local officials view Goals 2000 as a means to promote education reform efforts." This report contains information from all 50 states, the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico.

State and Local Reform Initiatives

Baylis, Elena A.

The Oregon model: education reform by public mandate. Journal of law and education, v. 26, Apr. 1997: 47-100.

"This article reviews the political process that created Oregon's education reform and the prospects for the success of these reforms. The first section provides background information about Oregon's educational and political systems and about the ineffective reform attempts that preceded the current effort. Section two describes the creation of a reform mandate through Ballot Measure 5 and the legislature's development of a new funding formula to create fiscal equity between school districts."

Chicago school reform: special section. Teachers College record, v. 99, fall 1997: 73-161.

Partial contents.--Invisible hand: big business and Chicago school reform.--Poking around: outsiders view.--Business control or open democracy.

The Development of accountability systems nationwide and in Texas. Austin, Texas Education Agency, [1996] 44 p. (Statewide Texas Educational Progress Study; report no. 1)

Grissmer, David. Flanagan, Ann.

Exploring rapid achievement gains in North Carolina and Texas: lessons from the States. [Washington] National Education Goals Panel, 1998. [50 p.]

These two states produced the largest average gains on NAEP reading and mathematics assessments administered between 1990 and 1996. The authors discuss policy initiatives and policy environments that might explain why.

<<http://www.negp.gov/reports/grissmer.pdf>>

Hill, Charles.

Developing educational standards: state education departments. Putnam Valley, N.Y., Putnam Valley Schools 47-100.

Links to State education agencies detailing their reform initiatives.

<<http://putwest.boces.org/St/StandardsSED.html>>

Kirchhoff, Sue.

Congress looks to Kentucky for lessons on education. Congressional Quarterly weekly report, v. 56, Feb. 28, 1998: 491-497.

Includes a companion article, "Congress courts corporate leaders ... to support educational goals." Reviews the 1990 Kentucky Education Reform Act, which "created pre-school programs for at-risk children, set up school-based decision-making councils and poured hundreds of millions of dollars into technology. The law created a comprehensive testing program that sets two-year improvement goals for schools."

Madsen, Jean.

Educational reform at the state level : the politics and problems of implementation. Washington, Falmer Press, 1994. 184 p.

Maryland. Task Force on Education Funding Equity, Accountability, and Partnerships.

Task Force on Education Funding Equity, Accountability, and Partnerships: final report. Annapolis, Md. (90 State Circle, Annapolis 21401), Dept. of Legislative Services [1998] 84 p.

Massell, Diane.

State strategies for building capacity in education: progress and continuing challenges. Philadelphia, Consortium for Policy Research in Education, University of Pennsylvania, 1998. 63 p.

Compares strategies, standards, and testing in California, Colorado, Florida, Kentucky, Maryland, Michigan, Minnesota, and Texas.

Portz, John.

Governing Massachusetts Public Schools: assessing the 1993 Massachusetts Education Reform Act. New England journal of public policy, v. 13, spring-summer 1998: 125-142.

"The Massachusetts Education Reform Act of 1993 created a number of important changes in public education . . . . Two important challenges lie ahead: developing support from other local political leaders and fostering a cooperative environment among local governance actors."

Rebarber, Theodor.

Accountability in education. Denver, National Conference of State Legislatures, jointly with Vanderbilt University's Educational Excellence Network, 1991. 26 p.

Sagor, Richard.

Local control and accountability: how to get it, keep it, and improve school performance. Thousand Oaks, Calif., Corwin Press, 1996. 123 p.

Partial contents.--Vision setting, action research, and performance assessment.--Reducing risk of school failure.--Arbitrating conflicts over inclusion.

Stanfield, Rochelle L.

Bossing city schools. National journal, v. 29, Feb. 8, 1997: 272-274.

"Big-city mayors are seeking more power over their local school boards now that education has become a top public concern and urban education has plummeted to the bottom of the success charts."

Texas Education Agency.

Academics 2000: 1997 progress report. Austin, The Agency, [1998] 187 p.
Sees progress towards achieving state and national academic goals.

Washington (State). Superintendent of Public Instruction.

Educational choices available to the common schools. Olympia, 1996. 21 p.

Partial contents.--School boards.--Choice.--Education reform.--School-to-work.--Education centers.--Waivers.--Magnet schools.--Interlocal Cooperation Act.--Schools for the twenty-first century.

-----

Washington Goals 2000: report to the Legislature. Olympia, 1996. [163] p.

Wurtz, Emily.

Promising practices: progress toward the goals, 1998: lessons from the States, Washington, National Education Goals Panel, [1998]. 48 p. .

Uses NEGP data to identify states that are among the top performers and top improvers. Includes programs and policies that officials in twenty states believe contributed to statewide improvements.

Technology Initiatives

Bozeman, William C. Baumbach, Donna J.

Educational technology: best practices from America's schools. Princeton Junction, N.J., Eye on Education, 1995. 293 p. (Library of innovations, no. 4)

- Fulton, Kathleen. Pruitt-Mentle, Davina.
Background paper for the Expert Panel on Educational Technology.
[Washington] U.S. Dept. of Education, 1998.
Considers the need for a separate focus on technology within educational reform.
- Hammonds, Linda O.
The virtual high school. Clearinghouse, v. 71, July-Aug. 1998.
The U.S. Dept. of Education allocated $7.4 million for this program covering public schools in Hudson, Mass. Other virtual high school sites in 12 other states, Germany, and Jordan make extensive use of multimedia,
Internet, and laboratories.
- Mageau, Therese.
Counting toward 2000, the DOE develops an ambitious national technology plan, but says its funding must be local. Electronic learning, v. 15, Nov.-
Dec. 1995, p. 12 (2)
"Call to action" is the Dept. of Education's national technology vision being drafted. Business leaders are being sought to form partnerships with educational institutions.
- McCombs, Barbara L. Whisler, Jo Sue.
The learner-centered classroom and school: strategies for increasing student motivation and achievement. San Francisco, Jossey Bass, 1997. 267 p.
- Rowand, Cassandra.
Internet access in public schools and classrooms: 1994-98. Washington,
U.S. Dept. of Education, 1999.
<<http://nces.ed.gov/pubsearch/pubsinfo.asp?pubid=1999017>>
- U.S. President's Committee of Advisors on Science and Technology. Panel on Educational Technology.
Report to the President on the use of technology to strengthen K-12 education in the United States. Washington, 1997.
<<http://www.whitehouse.gov/WH/EOP/OSTP/NSTC/PCAST/k-12ed.html>>
- Using technology to support education reform. Washington, U.S. Office of Educational Research and Improvement, 1993. 110 p.
- Educational Administrative and Finance Innovations and School Improvement
Programs, Including School Choice, Charter and Magnet Schools, and Vouchers
- Autonomy and choice in context: an international perspective. Edited by Rina Shapira and Peter W. Cookson, Jr. New York, Pergamon, 1997. 489 p.
Cross-cultural workshop and school choice comparative study.
- Barr, Robert D. Parrett, William.
How to create alternative, magnet, and charter schools that work.
Bloomington, Ind., National Educational Service, 1997. 231 p.

- Card, David. Payne, Abigail A.
 School finance reform, the distribution of school spending, and the distribution of SAT scores. Cambridge, Mass., National Bureau of Economic Research, 1998. 41 p. (Working paper 6766)
 Using multi-state comparisons, studies "the effects of school finance reforms on the distribution of school spending across richer and poorer districts, and the effects of spending equalization on the distribution of student outcomes across children from different family backgrounds."
- Chinni, Dante.
 Today's landed gentry: how our public education system rewards those who start out ahead. [Reform of public school financing]. Washington monthly, v. 28, Oct. 1996: 24-27.
- Chubb, John E. Moe, Terry M.
 Politics, markets, and America's schools. Washington, Brookings Institution, 1990. 318 p.
 Argues that poor academic performance is related to American democratic control over schools. Stresses the importance of school organization on student achievement. Encourages reform efforts to promote parental and student choice among schools.
- Concepts and issues in school choice. Edited by Margaret D. Tannenbaum.
 Lewiston, E. Mellen Press, 1995. 509 p. (Mellen studies in education; v. 23)
 Historical overview of magnet schools, vouchers, and choice.
- Darling-Hammond, Linda.
 The right to learn: a blueprint for creating schools that work. San Francisco, Jossey-Bass, 1997. 394 p.
 Partial contents: The limits of the education bureaucracy.-- Structuring learner-centered schools.--Staffing.--Creating standards without standardization.--Ensuring access.
- Designing new American schools: baseline observations on nine design teams.
 Edited by Susan Bodilly and others. Santa Monica, Calif., Rand, 1995. 94 p.
 Supported by New American Schools Development Corporation.
- Hadderman, Margaret..
 Charter Schools. ERIC digest No. 118., Eugene, Ore., ERIC Clearinghouse on Educational Management, 1999.
 The majority of charter schools are found in states with strongest laws: Arizona, California, Colorado, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, and North Carolina. Notes implementation obstacles and policy trends.
 Educational digests are short reports on topics of current interest in education, such as teacher accountability, reform, and standards, and are usually targeted for teachers, administrators, policymakers, and practitioners. Produced by the subject-specialized ERIC Clearinghouses.
 <http://www.ed.gov/databases/ERIC\_Digests/ed422600.html>

- Havelock, Ronald G.
The change agent's guide. 2nd ed. Englewood Cliffs, N.J., Educational Technology Publications, 1995. 257 p.
School management and organization for educational reform.
- Hedges, Larry V. Nowell, Amy.
Changes in the black-white gap in achievement test score. Sociology of education, v. 72, Apr 1999: 111-135.
Examines statistical trends in minority achievement. "If greater equity is a goal of American society, interventions may be needed that specifically attempt to move more blacks to the highest end of the achievement distribution." Notes that, "the two groups are becoming more equal at the bottom of the test-score distribution, but at the top, blacks are hugely underrepresented and are approaching parity with whites slowly, if at all."
- Henderson, David R.
The case for school choice. Stanford, Calif., Hoover Institution on War, Revolution, and Peace, Stanford University, 1993. 39 p. (Essays in public policy, no. 44)
- Henig, Jeffrey R.
Rethinking school choice: limits of the market metaphor. Princeton, N.J., Princeton University Press, 1994. 277 p.
Argues against privatization in educational reform.
- Hirsch, Eric.
A new chapter for charters. State legislatures, v. 24, June 1998: 20-24.
States that "parents and teachers who want to create their own schools can do so in most states. In others, lawmakers are hesitant because there are incompletes on the charter school report card . . . . Seven years after the first legislation was passed, there is still no definitive research demonstrating the effectiveness of these schools."
- Hirsch, Eric. Samuelsen, Shelby.
Turning away from public education. State legislatures, v. 25, Sept. 1999: 12-16.
"As more questions about public schools' performance and safety arise, so do more proposals for alternative schooling. All are controversial."
- Hula, Richard C. Jelner, Richard W. Schauer, Mark.
Making educational reform: hard times in Detroit 1988-1995. Urban education, v. 32, May 1997: 202-232.
"Explores the apparent collapse of a local education reform effort in Detroit despite broad dissatisfaction with the current education system. Both collaborative and competitive approaches to reform are investigated . . . Reformers who implemented change were removed from office and yet a business school compact, neighborhood-based empowerment schools, and schools of choice remain as a legacy. This indicates that although short-term political support for change in Detroit did collapse, some long-term institutional impact of the reform remains."

Improving America's schools: the role of incentives. [Washington] National Academy Press, 1996. 268 p.

Partial contents.-- Research-based school reform: the Clinton administration's agenda.-- Outcomes, costs, and incentives in schools, by Eric A. Hanushek.--The effects of school-based management plans. -- Public school partnerships: community, family, and school factors in determining child outcomes.--Using student assessments for educational accountability.-- Economics of school reform for at-risk students.--Staffing the nation's schools with skilled teachers.

Interdistrict magnet schools and charter schools report. [Hartford] State of Connecticut, State Board of Education [1999] 132 p.

Katzman, John. Hodas, Steven.

Class action: how to create accountability, innovation, and excellence in American schools. New York, Villard Books, 1995. 162 p.

Koch, Kathy.

School vouchers. CQ researcher, v. 9, Apr. 9, 1999: 281-304.

Gives background, chronology, and outlook of the public debate over whether taxpayers should help parents pay for private education through statewide tuition voucher programs. "School vouchers are gaining support." Includes pro and con debate, "Are voucher programs that include church-related schools constitutional?"

McMillan, Kevin Randall.

The turning tide: the emerging fourth wave of school finance reform litigation and the courts' lingering institutional concerns. Ohio State law journal, v. 58, 1998: 1867-1903.

Article suggests that, "school finance reform litigation has challenged state school financing systems utilizing both equality and adequacy theories . . . The author examines the most recent struggle and asks whether a new fourth wave of litigation is being created with claims based upon both education and desegregation clauses in state constitutions." Examples from Connecticut, New Jersey, and Texas included.

Murray, Sheila A. Evans, William N. Schwab, Robert M.

Education-finance reform and the distribution of education resources. American economic review, v. 88, Sept. 1998: 789-812.

"Between 1971 and 1996 opponents of local funding for public schools successfully challenged the constitutionality of school-finance systems in 16 states . . . . Investigate[s] the impact of reform on the distribution of school resources . . . . Court-ordered finance reform reduced within-state inequality in spending by 19 to 34 percent. Successful litigation reduced inequality by raising spending in the poorest districts while leaving spending in the richest districts unchanged, thereby increasing aggregate spending on education. Reform led states to fund additional spending through higher state taxes."

Peterson, Paul E.

The case for choice. Harvard magazine, v. 99, May-June 1997: 34-35, 87.

Discusses "privatizing public schools for better education" and several aspects of the Milwaukee school choice experience.

Public school choice programs, 1993-94: availability and student participation.

Washington, National Center for Education Statistics, 1997.

Statistics on whether school choice programs differ regionally, which program type is most widely available, and the number of students in school choice programs.

Rees, Nina Shokrari. Youssef, Sarah E..

School choice 1999: what's happening in the States. Washington, Heritage Foundation, 1999. 9 p. (Backgrounder, no. 1246 ( Jan. 27, 1999))

"For many, 1998 will be remembered as the year school choice received its biggest legal boost and generated a flurry of support from state and Washington legislators, former school choice opponents, and low-income parents." Heritage publishes an assessment of school choice programs annually.

<<http://www.heritage.org/library/backgrounder/bg1246.html>>

Rothstein, Richard.

Charter conundrum. American prospect, no. 39, July-Aug. 1998: 46-60.

"The premise on which charter schools are based--that we can hold schools accountable for results--is a myth. As contemporary debates about national standards and testing show, there is no consensus about how to assess educational outcomes objectively." In fact, according to the author, "praise for charter schools comes in the same form today as criticism of regular public schools: little more than anecdotal puffery and phony statistics." Sidebar articles report on schools in Boston, Sacramento, and LeSueur-Henderson, Minn.

Sarason, Seymour Bernard.

Charter schools: another flawed educational reform? New York, Teachers College Press, c1998. 115 p. (Series on school reform)

School choice: a special report. Foreword by Ernest L. Boyer. Princeton, N.J.,

Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching, c1992. 129 p.

Includes bibliographical references (p. 115-122) and index.

School choice: collected articles. Social science quarterly, v. 79, Sept. 1998: 489-553.

Partial contents.--School choice and culture wars in the classroom.--Liberal equity in education: a comparison of school choice options.--Policy theories of school choice.--What social science is, and is not, resolving about the school choice debate: reactions to 'school choice and culture wars' and 'Liberal equity in education.'

- Smrekar, Claire. Goldring, Ellen B.
School choice in urban America: magnet schools and the pursuit of equity.
New York, Teachers College Press, c1999. 151 p. (Critical issues in educational leadership series)
- Steel, Lauri. Levine, Roger.
Educational innovation in multiracial contexts: the growth of magnet schools in American education. Prepared for U.S. Department of Education under contract by American Institutes for Research. [Washington?] The Dept., 1994.
- Transforming schools. Edited by Peter W. Cookson, Jr. and Barbara Schneider.
New York, Garland Pub., 1995. 611 p. (Garland reference library of social science, v. 888)
School management and organization for educational change.
- Tyack, David.
Choice options: school choice, yes--but what kind? American prospect, no.
42, Jan.-Feb. 1999: 61-64, 66.
The most basic questions about the structure of education since the 19th century have been raised during the current debate about school choice.
- U.S. Congress. House. Committee on Education and the Workforce.
Charter Schools Amendments Act of 1997; report together with additional, minority, and dissenting views to accompany H.R. 2616 including cost estimate of the Congressional Budget Office. Washington, G.P.O., 1997.
51 p. (Report, House, 105th Congress, 1st session, no. 105-321)
- U.S. Congress. House. Committee on Education and the Workforce.
Subcommittee on Early Childhood, Youth and Families.
Public and private school choices in the District of Columbia. Mar. 12, 1998. Washington, G.P.O., 1998. 165 p.
"Serial no. 105-80"
The same committee held an earlier hearing, Sept. 30, 1997. "Private and Public School Choice," published in 1998. ("Serial no. 105-135")
- U.S. Congress. Senate. Committee on Labor and Human Resources.
Overview of charter schools. Hearing, 105th Congress, 2d session. Mar. 31, 1998. Washington, G.P.O., 1998. 101 p. (Hearing, Senate, 105th Congress, 2d session, S. hrg. 105-483)
"Examining the role of charter schools in educational reform, state and federal funds, and S. 1380 and H.R. 2616, bills to extend the authorization of funds through fiscal year 2002 for Titles VI and X of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act to expand the implementation of public charter schools."
- Voices on choice: the education reform debate. Edited by K. L. Billingsley. San Francisco, Pacific Research Institute for Public Policy, c1994. 102 p.

Vouchers for school choice: challenge or opportunity? : an American Jewish reappraisal. Edited by Marshall J. Breger and David M. Gordis. [Brookline, Mass.] Susan & David Wilstein Institute of Jewish Policy Studies; [Washington] Interdisciplinary Program in Law and Religion, Columbus School of Law, Catholic University of America, c1998. 201 p.

Wassmer, Robert W.

School finance reform: an empirical test of the economics of public opinion formation. Public finance review, v. 25, July 1997: 393-425.

"Primary and secondary public school finance reforms that began in the 1970s have failed to correct large intrastate spending inequities . . . . Characteristics significant to individual opinion formation on school finance reform include . . . self-interest, measures of fiscal knowledge, political party identification, and opinions on the role of government."

Weiss, Suzanne. Ziebarth, Todd.

School choice: the school choice movement is changing the landscape of public education. ECS online: the progress of education reform, 1999-2001, v. 1, May 1999. [8 p.]

Available online as part of the Education Commission of the States' website. <<http://www.ecs.org/ecs/ecswweb.nsf>>

Notes, "whatever the pros and cons, the school-choice movement continues to gain ground. Increasingly state choice programs include a mix of inter-and intradistrict enrollment options, charter schools and home schooling."

Who chooses? who loses? : culture, institutions, and the unequal effects of school choice. Edited by Bruce Fuller and Richard F. Elmore with Gary Orfield. New York, Teachers College Press, c1996. 213 p. (Sociology of education series)

This book stems from papers presented at the Harvard School Choice and Family Seminar, School of Education. It discusses social and political aspects of school choice. A 1992 work edited by Fuller with Richard Robinson also addressed political and socioeconomic aspects of education: "The Political Construction of Education: the State, School Expansion, and Economic Change," New York, Praeger.

Wildavsky, Ben.

Vouchers, go forth. National journal, v. 30, Nov. 14, 1998: 2712-2714.

"With the Supreme Court's acquiescence, taxpayer-funded school vouchers are starting to evolve out of the privately financed scholarship programs popping up around the country."

National Standards: Curriculum Reform

Bailey, Thomas. Merritt, Donna.

Industry skill standards and education reform. American journal of education, v. 105, Aug. 1997: 401-436.

Despite legislative mandates, analysis of skill standards pilot projects finds that most "standards appear to clash with the goals of broader education reform."

Barton, Paul E.

Too much testing of the wrong kind; too little of the right kind in K-12 education: a policy information perspective. Princeton, N.J., Educational Testing Service, Policy Information Center, 1999.
<http://www.ets.org/research/pic/testing/tmt.html>
 Partial contents.--"National" testing.--Content standards and aligned assessment.--Accountability, but for the right things.

Cheney, Lynne V.

Whose national standards? Wall Street journal, Apr. 2, 1997, p. A14.
 Criticizes the Clinton Administration's proposed education standards.

Educating one & all: students with disabilities and standards-based reform.

Committee on Goals 2000 and the Inclusion of Students with Disabilities, Board on Testing and Assessment, Commission on Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, National Research Council. Edited by Lorraine M. McDonnell, Margaret J. McLaughlin, and Patricia Morison. Washington, National Academy Press, 1997. 292 p.

Hatch, Thomas.

How comprehensive can comprehensive reform be? Phi Delta Kappan, v. 79, Mar. 1998: 518-522.
 Presents ideas of an ATLAS Community project, 1992-96, which caused the author to reevaluate knowledge needs of comprehensive educational reform efforts: technical, resource, local, process, strategic, and organizational knowledge.

High stakes: testing for tracking, promotion, and graduation. Edited by Jay P.

Heubert and Robert M. Hauser, Committee on Appropriate Test Use, Board on Testing and Assessment, Commission on Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, National Research Council. Washington, National Academy Press, 1999. 331 p.

Hirsch, E. D.

The schools we need and why we don't have them. New York, Doubleday, 1996. 317 p.
 Asserts that, "the characteristic curriculum of education in the U.S. requires reforms in terms of the steady and orderly acquisition of knowledge." Favors standards for some common core of knowledge.

Koch, Kathy.

National education standards. CQ researcher, v. 9, May 14, 1999: 401-424.
 "Two trends are sweeping through U.S. public schools--standards-based reform and the push for accountability. The premise is that academic achievement can be improved by establishing rigorous statewide education standards and then by developing parallel curriculums and tests . . . When Congress moves to reauthorize education and testing measures this year, it will examine how reform and accountability can coexist with yet another trend in education-giving local schools more flexibility."

Lewis, Anne C.

Of goals and tests [for evaluating educational performance] Phi Delta Kappan, v. 78, May 1997: 671-672.

Warns to be wary of interpretations of national testing results.

Making the curriculum work. Paris, Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development, 1998. 123 p.

Asks, "Can student assessment help make curricula more relevant? How can further training for teachers make their teaching more effective?"

Analyzes innovation with curriculum content in some OECD countries.

Marzano, Robert J. Kendall, John S.

A comprehensive guide to designing standards-based districts, schools, and classrooms. Alexandria, Va., Association for Supervision and Curriculum Development; Aurora, Co., Mid-continent Regional Educational Laboratory, 1996. 293 p.

Scaling up the core knowledge sequence. Education and urban society, v. 30, May 1998: 409-432.

Assesses implementation of E.D. Hirsh's identified "Core Knowledge Sequence," as a basis for curricular reform in twelve schools, in an effort to bring "equal access for all to the knowledge necessary for higher literacy and learning," and adaptations made.

Slavin, Robert E.

Show me the evidence!: proven and promising programs for America's schools. Thousand Oaks, Calif., Corwin Press, 1998. 125 p.

Sobol, Thomas.

Beyond the standards: the rest of the agenda. Teachers College record, v. 98, summer 1997: 629-636.

"Standards-based education reform movement has been championed by big business, by the nation's governors, by the president and the Congress, . . . [but] they are not enough . . . . We must move beyond standards to support teachers, provide the necessary resources, deal straight with the problems of race, [and] nurture community.

Tucker, Marc S. Coddling, Judy B.

Standards for our schools : how to set them, measure them, and reach them. San Francisco, Jossey-Bass, c1998. 349 p.

Partial contents.--Setting high standards for everyone -- Teaching to the standards -- Rebuilding "central" for accountability.--Bibliography.

2000 and world-class standards on the Internet. ERIC/AE Digest. Washington, ERIC Clearinghouse on Assessment and Evaluation, 1994.

Identifies Internet sources and information about states' Goals 2000.

<http://www.ed.gov/databases/ERIC\_Digests/ed385610.html>

U.S. House. Committee on Education and the Workforce. Subcommittee on Early Childhood, Youth, and Families.

Reforming bilingual education. Hearing, 105th Congress, 2d session. Apr. 30, 1998. Washington, G.P.O., 1999. 375 p.

"Serial no. 105-101"

This Subcommittee held other hearings on bilingual education reform, including one in San Diego, Feb. 18, 1998.

What is basic? Educational leadership, v. 55, Mar. 1998: 2-3, 6-30, 32-46, 50-60, 62-76.

Partial contents.--Detracking for high student achievement.-- Voluntary national tests would improve education.--National tests are unnecessary and harmful.

Class Size and School Scheduling Proposals

Achilles, Charles M.

Let's put kids first, finally: getting class size. Thousand Oaks, Calif., Corwin Press, 1999. 203 p.

Bell, Julie Davis.

Smaller=better? State legislatures, v. 24, June 1998: 14-18.

Suggests that, "a wave of popular support has buoyed up the idea of reducing school class sizes across the country. But does it work? Maybe so, maybe not."

Benefits of small classes pay off at graduation. Project STAR news, (Lebanon, TN), Apr. 29, 1999. 3 p.

Researchers for Project STAR (Student/Teacher Achievement Ratio) reported that students who are in smaller classes in K-3 have "better high school graduation rates, higher grade point averages, and are more inclined to pursue higher education." Class size is differentiated from pupil-teacher ratio. This and other project press releases and reports are available online. <<http://www.telalink.net/~heros/star.htm>>

Glines, Don E.

Year-round education: history, philosophy, future. San Diego, Calif., National Association for Year-Round Education; Saline, Mich., McNaughton & Gunn, 1995. 224 p

Hoxby, Caroline M.

The effects of class size and composition on student achievement: new evidence from natural population variation. Cambridge, Mass., National Bureau of Economic Research, 1998. 61 p. (Working Paper W6869). <<http://papers.nber.org/papers/W6869>>

National Education Commission on Time and Learning (U.S.)

Prisoners of time: report. Washington, for sale by the Supt. of Docs., G.P.O., 1994. 56 p.

Recommends: "establish an academic day; keep schools open longer to meet the needs of children and communities; give teachers the time they need; invest in technology; develop local action plans to transform schools' share the responsibility."

These recommendations are examined in the U.S. Congress. Senate. Committee on Labor and Human Resources. Subcommittee on Education, Arts, and Humanities. Commission on Time and Learning. Hearing, 103rd Congress, 2nd session, Sept. 22, 1994. Washington, GPO, 1994. 45 p. (Hearing, Senate, 103rd Congress, 2nd session, S. hrg. 103-762)

Pate-Bain, Helen. Fulton, B. DeWayne. Boyd-Zaharias, Jayne.

Effects of class-size reduction in the early grades (K-3) on high school performance: Preliminary results (1999) from Project STAR, Tennessee's longitudinal class-size study. Washington, National Education Association, 1999. 6 p..

<<http://www.nea.org/issues/classsize/bain.html>>

Shortt, Thomas L. Thayer, Yvonne V.

Block scheduling can enhance school climate. Educational leadership, v. 56, Dec. 1998-Jan. 1999: 76-81, 82-84.

-----

A vision for block scheduling: where are we and where are we going? December theme: alternative scheduling; article from Dec. 1997 NASSP Bulletin. Reston, Va., National Association of Secondary School Principals, online updated in 1999.

<<http://nassp.org/publications/bulletin/dec97bul.htm>>

U.S. Dept. of Education.

President Clinton and Vice President Gore investing in smaller classes in modern schools: a state-by-state analysis," Feb. 20, 1999.

The Dept. of Education describes and gives statistics for active programs or initiatives in the Clinton Administration on its website.

<<http://www.ed.gov/inits/construction/99alloc/>>

Parental and Community Involvement

Henry, Gary T.

Community accountability: a theory of information, accountability and school improvement. Phi Delta Kappan, v. 78, Sept. 1996, p. 85 (6).

"Information fosters collaboration between the public and its schools. [Urges] . . . an open and unrestricted flow of information about student performance.

New American high schools: on the leading edge of reform. Reston, Va., National Association of Secondary School Principals, 1999.

"High schools that are engaged in comprehensive school reform and are able to demonstrate significant student achievement may be recognized as New American High Schools through an initiative co-sponsored by NASSP and the U. S. Department of Education. The New American High Schools initiative recognizes and supports high schools in the United States that have undertaken extensive reform efforts to ensure all students meet challenging academic standards and are prepared for college and careers. These schools use innovative instruction, leading-edge technology, professional development, community service, integrated work-based experience, and community-based partnerships to increase student achievement and performance."

<<http://nassp.org/scholarships/newamerican/index.html>>

[Phi Delta Kappan issue on community involvement in public schools] Phi Delta Kappan, v. 78, June 1997: 740-776.

Partial contents.--Public's schools: the Public Agenda/Institute for Educational Leadership Town Meeting Project.--Strategy for successful public engagement ["describes the seven-stage journey toward public consensus"]--Building community for public schools ["Hattiesburg's [MS] participation in the national demonstration project 'Public Conversations About the Public's Schools.'"]

Restoring public confidence. Educational leadership, v. 54, Feb. 1997: 44-74.

Partial contents.--The public's view of public schools.--Polls are useful: yes, no, or maybe?--A nation of learners: nostalgia and amnesia.--Recruiting parents and the community.--School reform.--A high-tech magnet for seniors.--For a champion of racial harmony.

Teacher Quality and Training

American Federation of Teachers.

K-12/educational Issues: teacher quality.

Includes resolutions on improving teacher quality, and information on teacher education, recruitment, and standards.

<<http://www.aft.org/edissues/teacherquality/index.htm>>

Better teachers, better schools. Marci Kanstoroom and Chester E. Finn, Jr., editors. Washington, Thomas B. Fordham Foundation, in cooperation with the Education Leaders Council, 1999.

Partial contents.--The Teacher quality debate.--Teacher licensing and student achievement.--Who gets hired to teach? The case of Pennsylvania.--The National Board for Professional Teaching Standards.--The National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education.

<<http://edexcellence.net/better/tchrs/btbs.htm>>

Chase, Bob. Lieberman, Myron.

Q. Do teachers unions have a positive influence on the educational system? [Symposium] Insight (Washington times), v. 12, Oct. 21, 1996: 24-27.

National Education Association rejects claim that unions hamper reform, charging that critics want no public education. Rebuttal claims that unions have stopped reforms such as evening parent conferences and merit pay plans.

Chinni, Dante.

Teachers' pets. Washington monthly, v. 29, Jan-Feb. 1997: 22-25.

Asserts that teachers' unions are more influential in state houses than in Congress. Gives examples of union activism in Connecticut and New York.

Darling-Hammond, Linda. Wise, Arthur E. Klein, Stephen P.

A license to teach: raising standards for teaching. San Francisco: Jossey-Bass, 1999. 225 p.

Focuses on case studies from Minnesota schools, including the training, certification, and evaluation of teachers in reform efforts.

Gorman, Siobhan.

Money and mentors make A+ teachers. National journal, v. 31, Mar. 6, 1999: 623-624.

Sees higher teacher salaries and mentoring as "the key ingredients to improved teacher quality and performance."

Hanushek, Eric A. Kain, John F. Rivkin, Steven G.

Teachers, schools, and academic achievement. Cambridge, Mass., National Bureau of Economics Research, 1998. (Working paper W6691).

Looks at "the role of teacher differences and other aspects of schools" using data from the Harvard/UTD Texas Schools Project. <<http://papers.nber.org/papers/W6691>>

National Commission on Teaching & America's Future (U.S.)

Teaching for high standards: what policymakers need to know and be able to do. [Prepared by Linda Darling-Hammond and Deborah Loewenberg Ball on behalf of the Commission for the National Education Goals Panel.] Philadelphia, University of Pennsylvania, co-published with the Commission, [1998] 33 p. (Consortium for Policy Research in Education, Joint report series, JRE-4)

Discusses the relationship between teacher knowledge and student performance, and what states are doing to provide opportunities for teacher learning since publication of the Commission's 1996 report, "What Matters Most: Teaching for America's Future."

Strengthening the teaching profession. Educational leadership, v. 55, Feb. 1998: 2-81 (passim.)

Partial contents.--Teacher learning that supports student learning.--NEA's role: cultivating teacher professionalism.--AFT's role:

bringing vitality to teaching.--"New and improved" teacher unionism.--Teacher portfolios.--Improving performance with 30-degree feedback [to the superintendent].--New teachers.--Coping with class size reduction in California.--Professional development schools.

Toch, Thomas. Garrett, Major.

Will teachers save public schools? U.S. news & world report, v. 125, July 20, 1998: 16-19.

Believes that union differences and recruiting wars may prevent leadership in school reform.

U.S. Congress. House. Committee on Education and the Workforce. Subcommittee on Early Childhood, Youth and Families.

Teacher preparation initiatives. Hearing, 105th Congress, 2d session. Feb. 24, 1998. Washington, G.P.O., 1998. 501 p.

"Serial no. 105-77"

Includes two reports from the National Commission on Teaching & America's Future, "What Matters Most: Teaching for America's Future," p. 261-423; and "Doing What Matters Most: ...[Investing] in Quality Teaching," p. 425-500.

U.S. Congress. Senate. Committee on Labor and Human Resources.

Better teachers for today's classroom: how to make it happen. Hearing, 105th Congress, 2d session. May 7, 1998. Washington, G.P.O., 1998. 82 p. (Hearing, Senate, 105th Congress, 2d session, S. Hrg. 105-61)

"Examin[es] proposals to provide more qualified teachers in the American classroom, focus on certain provisions of the Proposed Higher Education Amendments of 1998 (S. 1882 and H.R. 6) affecting institutional eligibility for student aid under Title IV of the Higher Education Act."

-----
Teaching in the new millennium: how we can prepare today's teachers for tomorrow's schools. June 15, 1998. Washington, G.P.O., 1998. 69 p. (Hearing, Senate, 105th Congress, 2d session, S. Hrg. 105-597)

"Examining innovative teacher training methods and to provide information as to how teachers can receive quality professional development"

"Hearing held Columbus, OH."

U.S. Dept. of Education.

Excellence & accountability in teaching: a guide to U.S. Department of Education programs and resources. Washington, 1997. 74 p.

<<http://www.ed.gov/pubs/ExcellAcctTeach/>>

U.S. GOVERNMENT PRINTING OFFICE
SUPERINTENDENT OF DOCUMENTS
WASHINGTON, DC 20402

SB-043

U.S. Government Information about the:

HIGH SCHOOL DEBATE TOPIC, 1999-2000

* * * * *

RESOLVED: That the Federal Government should establish an education policy to significantly increase academic achievement in secondary schools in the United States.

* * * * *

Aiming High: Strategies to Promote High Education Standards, Interim Report. BOOK. 1999. Focuses on 10 High Schools, which have been part of the New American High Schools initiative. This program was designed to showcase the school reform practices of a few carefully selected schools. 133 p.; ill. 0-16-050182-2

S/N 065-000-01270-7 $15.00

Assessment of School-Based Management. BOOK. 1996. Focuses on assessing the effectiveness of School-Based Management, in combination with ambitious curriculum and instructional reforms, as a tool for improving school performance. 149 p. 0-16-048863-X
ED 1.302:ST 9/15

S/N 065-000-00921-8 13.00

Assessment of Student Performance. BOOK. 1997. Documents and analyzes: key characteristics of performance assessments; facilitators and barriers in assessment reform; and impacts of performance assessments on teaching and learning. 263 p.; ill. 0-16-048881-8

S/N 065-000-00933-1 17.00

Catalog of School Reform Models: First Edition. BOOK. 1998. Provides introductory information on models for comprehensive school reform in two categories: entire-school models; and skill- and content-based models. 241 p.; looseleaf. 0-16-049626-8
S/N 065-000-01158-1 $18.00

Charter School Roadmap. BOOK. 1998. Addresses the emerging policy issues related to charter school reform in our nation. Contains a survey of the charter school landscape. Intended to guide policymakers through areas they need to examine in their initial consideration of charter schools or their reevaluation of existing school legislation. 75 p. 0-16-049701-9
S/N 065-000-01180-8 7.00

Disseminating Promising and Exemplary Programs: Planning a System of Expert Panels, Working Papers, Meeting Report and Follow-Up Papers. BOOK. 1997. Contains the planning meeting minutes, summary of themes from the discussion groups, the agenda, list of participants, meeting handouts, and individual commissioned papers from the "Planning a System of Expert Panels," held March 24, 1997. 280 p.; ill. 0-16-049389-7
S/N 065-000-01105-1 17.00

Education Reform and Students at Risk. BOOK. 1998. Examines ongoing experiences of reform initiatives. Presents the results from case studies at 18 schools that had previously been designated as effective in working with at-risk students. 133 p. 0-16-048880-X
S/N 065-000-01117-4 12.00

Goals 2000: Educate America Act, Public Law 103-227. BOOK. 1994. An Act to Improve Learning and Teaching by Providing a National Framework for Education Reform; to Promote the Research, Consensus Building, and Systemic Changes Needed to Ensure Equitable Educational Opportunities and High Levels of Educational Achievement for All Students; to Provide a Framework for Reauthorization of All Federal Education Programs; to Promote the Development and Adoption of a Voluntary National System of Skill Standards and Certifications; and for Other Purposes. Approved March 31, 1994. 156 p.
AE 2.110:103-227
S/N 869-024-00017-1 6.50

National Study of Charter Schools, Second-Year Report, 1998.

BOOK. 1998. Presents information about charter schools for the school year 1996-97. Based on a telephone survey designed to collect data from the 428 charter schools in operation across the nation as of January 1, 1997. 130 p.; ill. 0-16-049752-3
ED 1.302:C 38/998

S/N 065-000-01195-6

$14.00

Executive Summary to the above. BOOK. 1998.

Highlights the Second-Year Report and updates information on charter schools reported in the Study's First-Year Report, published in May 1997. 16 p.; ill. 0-16-049751-5
ED 1.302:C 38/998/EXEC.SUM.

S/N 065-000-01194-8

2.50

Parent and Community Involvement in Education. BOOK. 1997.

Represents a synthesis of two major tasks undertaken during the study: a summary review of the research and practice literature on parent and community involvement related to the middle grades; and the fieldwork which was carried out in nine sites across the United States. 142 p.

ED 1.302:ST 9/18

S/N 065-000-00937-4

12.00

Role of Leadership in Sustaining School Reform: Voices From the Field. BOOK. 1996.

Summarizes discussions of focus groups on the subject of leadership in sustaining school reform. Retells some of these leadership stories. Explains some of the strategies for self-assessment that participants use themselves or think might be worth using. 87 p.; ill. 0-16-048727-7

S/N 065-000-00890-4

7.50

School Reform and Student Diversity. BOOK. 1997. Reviews the context and methodology of a 1990 study of exemplary school reform efforts involving the education of limited English proficient students. 296 p.; ill. 0-16-048883-4

S/N 065-000-00935-8

18.00

State of Charter Schools: Third-Year Report, 1999. BOOK. 1999. Presents information from the National Study of Charter Schools, a 4-year research program to document and analyze the charter school movement. Examines: how have charter schools been implemented; under what conditions have they improved student achievement; and what impact have they had on public education. 62 p.; ill. ED 1.302:C 38/999

S/N 065-000-01247-2

$5.50

Status of Education Reform in Public Elementary and Secondary Schools: Principals' Perspectives. BOOK. 1998. Contains information about reform efforts in schools reported by school principals through a mail survey. The study asked principals and teachers about their use of content standards and performance standards and other reform strategies, ties between school and home, the role of the Title 1 program in supporting reform, and what information they need to help them move ahead with reform. 92 p.; ill. 0-16-049521-0

S/N 065-000-01131-0

8.50

Strengthening Your Child's Academic Future. BOOK. 1998. Designed to: help understand the importance of higher academic standards; provide sample questions parents can ask teachers and administrators to find out what they need to know about the academic expectations in their child's school. 14 p.; ill. 0-16-049412-5

S/N 065-000-01108-5

1.50

Students at the Center: National Teleconference on School Reform. KIT. 1998. Provides practical research-based resources for those engaged in comprehensive school reform. The video tape features panels of noted educational researchers and practitioners discussing three critical elements required to transform schools for the benefit of student learning. 0-16-049650-0

S/N 065-000-01160-3

26.00

Systemic Reform in the Professionalism of Educators. BOOK. 1997. Provides a systematic means of learning about the design, implementation, and impact of systemic reform to enhance the professionalism of educators. 100 p. 0-16-049133-9

S/N 065-000-01041-1

10.00

High School Debate Topic*Page 5

Technology and Education Reform. BOOK. 1997. Addresses the question of whether technology can provide significant support for constructivist, project-based teaching and learning approaches and the associated issue of the elements needed for an effective implementation of technology within an educational reform context. 196 p.; ill. 0-16-048882-6

S/N 065-000-00934-0*$15.00

Tried and True: Tested Ideas for Teaching and Learning From the Regional Educational Laboratories. BOOK. 1997. Presents 16 tested ideas for improving teaching and learning, which were developed by the Regional Educational Laboratories. Programs highlighted represent a continuum of the research and development process. They range from specific content- or audience-focused efforts up through programs that can broadly support comprehensive reform efforts. 96 p.; ill. 0-16-049309-9
ED 1.302:T 22/13

S/N 065-000-01093-3*10.00

Uses of Time for Teaching and Learning. BOOK. 1996. Focuses on quality and quantity uses of time in school. Also deals with students' out-of-school activities. 106 p. 0-16-048870-2

S/N 065-000-00927-7*8.00*Where to Order

Superintendent of Documents
P.O. Box 371954
Pittsburgh, PA 15250-7954

How to Remit

Regulations require payment in advance of shipment. Check or money order should be made payable to the Superintendent of Documents. Orders may also be charged to your Superintendent of Documents prepaid deposit account with this Office, MasterCard, VISA or Discover/Novus. If credit card is used, please be sure to include its date of expiration. Postage stamps are not acceptable.

Please Note

Supplies of government documents are limited and prices are subject to change without prior notice.

